

Addisson smith was on his way to his regular 10:00 am monday class as he drove to campus for a very important class that was attendance graded.

With only 10 minutes left he drives around campus looking for a parking space to park his car before the class starts. He uses 5 out of the 10 minutes to look for a parking space because all the available parking spaces he could see are filled up

He then remembers that there is a parking app that he could use to find free parking spaces around campus. The app shows him that there is a parking space nearer to his class than where he would usually park his car .

With plenty of time to spare He finds a parking space right in front of the building of his class and he was surprised that he never knew that there was a parking space close to the building and this couldn't be done without the parking space app. For this app he is thankful

With time to settle in before the class Addisson Smith is able to get into the class, settle down and attend the lecture while marking present for the class. He also enjoyed the class very well. All of this could only be thanks to the Parking Space App.
